VOL. XXXVI—NO. 39. ATHENS, OHIO, THURSDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 4, 1879. WHOLE NO. 3046.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1, 1879.

By whatever method it is accomplished, there is unquestionably a revival of the kindly attentions the Democratic papers formerly showered upon Mr. Tilden. He is spoken of much oftener and in a much more complimentary manner than was the case a few months ago. In the published interviews of distinguished Democrats he is almost invariably alluded to as one likely to be nominated. These things, in the language of the street, "mean business." Mr. Tilden is the coming Democratic candidate. The Republican candidate, whoever he may be, is the coming President.

Seven million more dollars were transmitted by money orders between points in the United States, in 1879 than in 1878. Each year showing an increase over the preceeding. This means of sending money is popular because it is cheap and absolutely safe. The rates are so fixed as to pay the Government's expenses.

Our exports for the year ending July 30, 1879, were greater by some $200,000,000 than our exports.

In an official paper the Comptroller of the Currency says that from reports he has received from the Examiners of National Banks in Illinois and Missouri the comparison of losses to creditors between these banks and State Banks is largely against the State institutions.—The losses to creditors in Missouri thro' State Banks and private bankers since 1876, have been $2,200,000, while the losses through National Banks in the same State since their organization fifteen years ago has been less than one million of dollars. In the State of Illinois the losses since 1871 have been $5,500,000 by private banks, while the losses of the National Banks since their establishment in '73 have been less than $1,500,000. The total losses to creditors through private banks in Illinois, within the last five years, have been more than three-fourths of the total losses of all the National Banks in the country since the system was created. The facts are the more astonishing when we consider the comparatively small business done by banking concerns other than National Banks.

No one in this city who knows Rev. J. P. Thompson, and he has many friends and acquaintances here, gives any credence to the rumors in relation to his improper intimacy with a New York singer. LOGAN.

THE COLORED CONVENTION AT NELSONVILLE.

NELSONVILLE, Aug. 30th, 1879.

ED. MESSENGER: An unusual stir was noticeable from early dawn among the colored citizens of our community. The fact that to-day the first colored political convention in this county was to assemble to discuss what part, if any, they would take in the present somewhat mixed political county affairs, was the cause of the activity among our colored citizens. As the day advanced delegations from other portions of the county began to arrive by trains and private conveyances, so that by 10 o'clock a very respectable number had gathered to take part in the deliberations of the convention. Each face beamed with delight and exhibited a consciousness of the importance of the business before them. It is but justice to the colored men to say, that their deliberations, and the good order prevailed, would have been very creditable to intelligent white men. The Convention was called to order at 11 o'clock by Samuel Barnes, and opened with prayer by Rev. Henry Morgan. Prof. T. J. Ferguson was chosen President of the Convention by acclamation. The President delivered a few well directed and appropriate remarks which were well received and heartily cheered. Among other good sentences uttered was this: "that for 250 years the colored men had helped to make this country what it is. There is now a disposition on the part of the colored men to do their duty, and do it right; that they may lack in wisdom but their good behavior with the good purposes they had in view, would make up for their deficiency in knowledge and culture." Samuel Sloan, of Athens, was elected Vice-President; E. H. Wilkins, of York, was chosen Secretary, with John Cromwell, of Athens, as Assistant Secretary. M. M. Holland, Esq., of Washington, D. C., was elected an honorary member of the Convention.

On motion, the chair appointed Ed. Lett, of York; J. H. Harris, of Athens, and T. W. Readus, of Lee, a committee to select a committee of 14 to see after the political interests of the colored people in this county.

On motion, the chair appointed as a committee on resolutions Sam. Barnes, Henry Winston, A. Broadus, A. Smith, W. Daniels, and Joseph Miller, after which the convention took a recess until 1 o'clock p. m.

After recess the convention was addressed at some length by S. Sloan, who made a very good speech, giving a graphic description of what the Republican party had done for them, and how they could enjoy the same privileges and rights that other men enjoy. He said that he now felt as big as President Hayes. He could vote one ticket and that was all the President could do. The speech had a good effect, in fact it lulled to sleep the only Democrat in the hall, who had come to take items for his Albany paper.

The report of the committee to appoint a committee of 14 was next received, and called out some discussion, as there was a doubt in the minds of some with regard to the political standing of one of the men selected. The following are the men chosen to look to the political interests of the colored men: Lee township, T. J. Ferguson and Jas. Cooper; York township, Samuel Barnes, H. Winston, Ed. Lett, E. Willis, W. Harper, and W. Frazier; Athens township, W. Daniels, J. H. Cromwell, Jos. Miller, S. Sloan, and J. H. Harris; Waterloo township, Wm. Newsome.

The committee on resolution reported as follows: We declare—

First—The right to vote and to be voted for is the only proper expression of representation known under our system of Government.

Second—That the exclusion of colored men from the jury box is unjust and tyrannical, furnishing protection to neither reputation, life nor property.

Third—That all voters are morally bound to inform themselves on all questions of public interest, and vote for the best interests of humanity and the maintenance of good government as against anarchy, misrule and oppression.

Fourth—That the public schools are conservators of American intelligence, and should not be given out to inexperienced and incompetent friends and relatives of school officers.

Fifth—That the assertion of our manhood and the protection of our rights and property demand of us intelligent and independent political action, and that we will support no man for office who does not accord to us a full recognition of our manhood and our rights, as defined by the Constitution and by the laws of the country.

Sixth—That we believe the United States is a Nation, and its power is supreme, and should give protection to its citizens wherever its flag floats.

Seventh—That so long as there are separate schools colored educators should be retained and encouraged and that the employment of white teachers for colored schools is unwise and unjust.

Eighth—That in view of the present dangerous attitude of the Democratic party we deem it unwise to make any nominations, and pledge ourselves to support the straight Republican ticket, believing that the grievance complained of will be remedied in the Republican party.

The fourth and seventh sections were discussed by Samuel Sloan and T. J. Ferguson.

M. M. Holland, Esq., of Washington City, being called on, made a speech that will not soon be forgotten by those that heard him. His exhortation will bear its fruit this fall. The manner in which he sat down on all who had thought of voting the Fusion ticket was simply admirable, carrying the house by storms of approval. Mr. Holland was followed by Doctor Shrader, J. P. Coe, candidate for County Treasurer, Squire Lynch, and J. H. Cromwell, who among other things, said: "We will remain active seamen on board of the great Republican ship. If she sinks we will go down with her—not to stay—but to raise her up again, and impart to her a new life and a new vigor. We will not enlist in a little side show. I mean by side show, this confounded confusion ticket." [Applause.]

The report of the Committee on resolutions was then adopted without division, and the Central Committee at Athens notified, by telegram, of the result. The following dispatch was received from the Committee in response:

ATHENS, Aug. 30, 1879, 3:59 P. M.

To T. J. Ferguson, President of the Mass Convention of Colored Voters of Athens County:

We congratulate you on your noble and patriotic work done in Convention this day, and deeply sympathize with you in the grievances you have so patiently and silently borne, and assure you that this committee will use its best endeavors to remedy the wrongs complained of.

A. W. S. MINEAR,
Chairman Athens Co. Rep. Cen. Com.

Samuel Barnes and F. S. King made a few appropriate remarks, after which the convention adjourned with three rousing cheers for the success of the Republican ticket. Each one present was satisfied with the work done by the convention, and parted with the best of feeling for each other, determined to maintain a solid Republican front—impregnable and proof against any device or snare of the enemy, be it the Fusion, National or Democratic party. ***

GENERAL NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Florida grew the biggest watermelon—102 pounds.

The wife of Chas. Bumgartner, killed by the explosion of a cement mill at Hahntown, Ind., on Thursday, is now a second widow within seven years.

Harry Gilbert Grafton, aged fourteen, for whom a large property is awaiting in England, after several years search, was, on Friday, found at the tramp's lodging-house.

Louis Rambes shot and mortally wounded Henry Walseber in front of a saloon at Princeton, Indiana, Thursday night. The parties a few minutes before had drank together.

The grief of the gold bugs at the jingle of the silver dollars as they drop from the mint remarks the Cin. Com. is deep, but then they do not know what is good for them.

James Bullock of Walton county, Ga. while recently in a cotton field found concealed in a stump $10,000 in gold and silver and a pile of greenbacks.—The paper money had rotted.

Micheal McKinly, a Detriot hackman, was shot dead at an early hour of Thursday morning by Minnie Porter, one of a disreputable group whom he was driving around the city. Whisky.

The democratic party of Pennsylvania should hold a big picnic on the hills around Pittsburg where they could look down upon the belching chimneys and hear the busy hum of the mills and factories.

Train No. 2 on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad coming north from Louisville, Friday evening, struck an old man named Page Stillcup on a bridge a few miles below here, killing him instantly.

Alonzo Howard, a colored fiend, has probably met justice ere this at the hands of an outraged community for violating the person of a white girl, aged 13, eleven miles back of Covington, Ky., on Friday.

Armand Knueson and George Beecher, two freighters from Fort Pierre, arrived at Deadwood on Friday, and report while encamped at Pine Springs, eighteen miles below Cheyenne River, several days, how they were attacked by Indians about 10 p. m., their wagons riddled with bulletts and arrows, and their horses killed.

STATE ITEMS.

A Mrs. Zeigler was thought to have been fatally injured at Piqua, on Thursday, by a moving train.

Senator Thurman has an abiding interest in the election of a Democratic Legislature—nothing more.

A man named File has been arrested at Ada, charge with incest with his fourteen-year-old daughter.

Henry Kenker, aged fifty-three, a Cincinnati journeyman cooper, suicided by hanging on Friday.

There were 1,478 prisoners in the Penitentiary on Monday, against 1,787 for the same date a year ago.

A citizen of Butler township, Darke county, named Odell, aged seventy, suicided by hanging on Saturday.

It is said that Senator Conkling has recently expressed a willingness to take part in the campaign in this State.

John Winters, for many years a railroad ticket agent at Cincinnati, was found dead in bed Monday morning.

The Fourteenth Ohio State Campmeeting is now being held upon the grounds of the Delaware County Agricultural Society.

A son of Jacob Vassar, aged fifteen, living near Ridgway, Hardin county, was killed by falling from a buckeye tree on Sunday.

Cornelius McMahon, alias Jas. Wilson, has made a confession to the killing of Washington Hite, near Upper Sandusky, the other day.

Geo. F. Meranda, a well known and wealthy farmer, near Sidney, was probably fatally injured on Thursday, by being thrown from a wagon.

Hiram Ritchie, a young and successful school teacher, near Akron, fatally shot himself twice in the head on Thursday. Unrequitted love.

Henry Blandy, a well known business man and philanthropist of Zanesville, died, in New York City, on Thursday, after protracted illness.

A boy named Emil Schmidt, aged 4, sustained the loss of four fingers on Friday, by falling from and being run over by a street car in Cincinnati.

Willie Mainwarning, a young deaf mute, while walking the track two miles north of Leetonia on Sunday afternoon, was struck by the cars and killed.

The Columbus Journal says: It is estimated by men who are competent to judge of crowds that there were not less than 50,000 visitors to the State Fair grounds on Thursday.

The seventh annual Exhibition at Cincinnati, which is to be inaugurated with a grandly imposing procession on the 10th inst., is reasonably expected to prove in all respects the best exhibition ever held in that city.

Clayton Randall, aged twenty-five, was killed Thursday night in a saloon at Walden, Marion county, by being struck in the head with a billiard cue by a man named Taylor. They couldn't agree about the game.

A deputation of the brewers of Cincinnati, without distinction of party, waited upon the Secretary of the Treasury on Thursday, and expressed their confidence in his financial policy, and congratulations upon his success in the administration of his Department.

The second Regiment of Ohio Militia with her full complement of officers and men, and of which the Athenian Light Guards is a component part, has been widely and loudly praised for the fine appearance it made in procession at the Cambridge emcampment last week.

On Friday afternoon, George Cross, of Kenton, attempted to steal a ride from Sandusky on a south-bound freight train, on the Cincinnati, Sandusky and Cleveland Railroad, and when a few rods from the depot there he fell between cars and was killed.

At Prospect P. O., in this State, on Thursday night, Thos. Oswald, a saloon keeper, had two thousand dollars in cash stolen from his bed room while he was waiting on customers at the bar, and now Thomas will have to sell at least three hundred thousand drinks before he will be as well off, pecuniarily, as he was but one short week ago.

David Yeakle, who was recently nominated by the Democratic convention of Butler, for Treasurer of that county, is discovered to be an official defaulter to the tune of something over six thousand dollars while acting as Deputy Treasurer. The unanimity with which defaulting treasurers in this State have turned up among Democratic officials is phenominal.

NEIGHBORING COUNTIES.

MEIGS.

Forty-four patients from this county in the Athens Asylum.

Mrs. Reuben Hawkins, of Rutland, died August 22, aged 35 years.

Mrs. Adam Roush, of Syracuse, aged 63, recently died very suddenly.

It is announced that this season's tobacco crop is the largest ever grown in this county.

It is on every hand announced that the Republicans of this county were never more united or enthusiastic.

Mrs. M. P. Cowderry, aged 57, and Mrs. Rev. John Geyer, sr., aged 76, recently died at their homes in Rutland township.

S. B. Womberdorf, formerly Wharfmaster at Middleport, had his thigh broken by being thrown from a wagon on Saturday.

Rutland will compete for one of the flags offered to the three largest organized delegations attending the Republican Mass meeting at Pomeroy, 5 inst.

Casson Strong, a resident of Upper Salem, a pioneer and leading citizen of this county, was recently found dead in a field on his farm. Supposed apoplexy.

The Middleport Herald says that a wagon full of miners recently had a narrow escape from being killed by a fall of slate in the coal mine of Isacher Jones.

Rev. Jesse Asbury, pastor of the African M. E. churches at Pomeroy and Middleport, for the past three years, preached his farewell sermon on Sunday of last week.

Adaline Hall, of Lebanon township, aged 25, the mother of three children, was adjudged to be insane, last week, caused by domestic troubles and brutality of an intemperate husband.

A correspondent of the Telegraph says that a party of six persons recently met at a house on Thomas' Fork, whose average weight was 1,33⅓ pounds and that two of the six were babies.

Nicholas Klein, President of the German Furniture Company, of Middleport, was severely injured by being kicked on the leg by his horse while standing by the side of his wagon, Saturday.

On Thursday last, says the Middleport Herald, while Abe Priode was working at his heading machine, back of Pomeroy, his arm was by some means caught in the knife and taken off instantly near the wrist.

The Portland correspondent of the Telegraph says: "The Republicans of this township who were last fall duped into the Greenback movement, are coming back to the Republican ranks.—They say they see the error of their way, and will sin no more."

A Rutland correspondent of the Telegraph refers to a recent reunion of the Benedict family at the old homestead, where Felix Benedict, the original settler, located in 1805. Those present of his children living were Jabez, aged 77; Elisha H. aged 84, and Mrs. Euretta Merrill, aged 86.

Charles Russell, sr., of Middleport, who has voted the Democratic ticket "ever since Jackson's day," publishes a card in the Telegraph withdrawing from that party for the substantial reason that "the rebels have taken the Democratic party to destroy our Nation—which they could not do with the sword. I can no longer remain a Democrat.

The Pomeroy Telegraph announces a very sensible conclusion, which it would been wise in the people of that section long since to have practically acted upon in saying: "It is useless longer to expect that we can secure an important means of transportation without aiding in its construction. In legitimate business transactions we can not get something for nothing. If a railroad will be of any benefit to this community it is no more than right that we shall pay something for that benefit."

WASHINGTON.

The public schools at Beverly have been fitted with new furniture.

Miss Lizze, eldest daughter of A. F. Enoch, of Belpre, died, recently, of remittent fever.

The house of C. S. Dickey, of Warren, was lately burglarized and a small sum of money stolen.

The M. & C. railroad are going to put two new spans in their bridge over the Muskingum, at Marietta.

Alonzo Rouse, son of John Rouse, of Belpre, says the Marietta Times, was run over by a bus last week near the camp ground and badly hurt.

A. R. Barnes, of Marietta, late postal route agent on the M. P. & C. road, who was recently arrested on a charge of robbing the mails, is home on bail.

The Marietta Chair Factory will shut down the last of the month, to put in a larger and more powerful engine. The company also intends to put in more machinery.

Edward Knowles, who has been clerking for several years in M. B. Adams' drug store in Belpre, is reported by the Marietta Times, lying very low with typhoid fever.

George, the eight year old son of James Rumbold, who lives about two miles up the Muskingum, above Harmar, while recently playing with an axe, cut three toes off one of his feet.

The Foster and Hickenlooper Club, of Marietta, starts out, says the Register, full of pluck and promise. A larger hall than its present one, it adds, will soon be necessary for its meetings.

The Harvest Home Pic-Nic Association, of Newbury, held its eighth annual meeting, Wednesday, Aug. 20th, in the grove by the M. E. church there, and at which there was about two thousand persons present. Judge Sam. S. Knowles was among the speakers.

The Marietta Register says: S. J. Hathaway has a cane made by a lad at the Children's Home, eleven years old, named Nathan Noble. The cane is of maple wood, with fifteen images carved upon it, mostly animals, and, considering the boy's age, very well done.

Mr. Oglevee, says the Marietta Register, was the guest of John T. Matthews, while in this city last week. It is not often that two candidates for the same office are on such friendly relations with each other, and it would be well if some of the jealous politicians imitated their example.

The Soldiers of the Army of West Virginia will meet on the 19th of September, 1879, at Marietta. The object of this Society is social, designed to collect and preserve the history and memories of the War, and to perpetuate the name and fame of the members of this Army, who fell in the service of their country.

PERRY.

The Nationals hold a convention today at Junction City.

Joseph Wonemaker and Miss Ella Dugan were recently married at Somerset.

The Ewing and Rice Club held their reunion at Somerset last Saturday night, and by actual count there were present thirteen Democrats and eleven Republicans.

Charles C. Lee, a hauler at the Central mine, at New Straitsville, had his leg mashed, on Friday, by a car jumping the track and catching him between the car and the coal.

The Republican Convention held at Somerset on last Thursday, was a grand rally. Hon. Mills Gardner, who was billed to address the meeting, was met at the depot by three brass bands, the Foster Club, and several hundred citizens, and escorted through the town. The following is the ticket: Representative, H. C. Grenier; Treasurer, W. T. Shriver; Commissioner, J. M. Mains; Prosecuting Attorney, J. E. Johnson; Infirmary Director, J. E. Murdock.

MORGAN.

Henry Owney, of Owney's Run, recently died at the age of 70 years.

E. M. Stanberry, of McConnelsville, who has been seriously ill, is improving.

S. A. D. Vanclief and Miss Laura Moore were recently married in McConnelsville.

Hon. T. J. Williams, of Marion, has left for Oregon, intending to permanently locate there.

The yearly meeting of the Christian Church of Morgan and adjoining counties, will be held at Wolf Creek Church, commencing on the 8th inst.

The Odd Fellows, of Deavertown, will dedicate their new hall on Saturday, September 6th, at which time a grand parade and picnic dinner will be given by the fraternity.

Navigation on our river, says the McConnelsville Democrat, is still broken by the trouble at the Rokeby locks—The break is of such a nature that it cannot be determined how long it will take to repair it.

HOCKING.

Noel W. Hamblin, Treasurer elect of this county, took official charge of his office on Monday.

Will Strawn, of Cedar Grove, was recently seriously hurt by a vicious horse striking him on the head.

Mr. Jos. Haffler, engineer on the Straitsville Brauch, says the Logan Sentinel, shot a crane near the depot, on Friday last, which measured six feet from tip to tip of wing, and from head to tip of toes, five feet.
